FICTIONAL DEMO ONLY. Original sample rules for RAG testing. Not an actual company policy or legal guidance. Real use requires authorized HR review and applicable requirements.

1. Purpose and scope

This fictional policy covers approved domestic business travel for full-time demo employees. All limits are in Indian rupees (INR) and are invented for the prototype. They are reimbursement ceilings, not legal or market benchmarks. International travel, relocation and personal commuting are outside scope and need a separate written arrangement.

2. Pre-travel approval

Submit destination, dates, business purpose, estimated costs and project or department code at least 5 working days before travel. The manager approves business need and Finance confirms the budget before booking. An emergency trip needs recorded approval as soon as practical and before avoidable spending. A chatbot cannot authorize travel or expense exceptions.

3.1 Transport

Book economy airfare or AC 3-tier rail, choosing a practical route and reasonable advance fare. Reimburse approved actual fares with booking evidence. Local taxis or public transport used for business require a receipt or journey record. Personal vehicle mileage is INR 8 per kilometre with pre-approval and a distance log; fuel for the same journey cannot also be claimed.

3.2 Accommodation

The nightly hotel ceiling is INR 4,000 for Bengaluru, Chennai, Delhi NCR, Hyderabad, Kolkata, Mumbai and Pune; it is INR 3,000 for other domestic locations. Ceilings include taxes and apply to the actual reimbursable room cost. Obtain manager and Finance approval for a higher rate before booking. Without an approved exception, reimbursement is capped at the relevant ceiling.

3.3 Meals and local costs

Reimburse actual business-travel meal costs up to INR 800 per calendar travel day, supported by receipts. Meals included in a hotel or event booking cannot be claimed again. This is not an automatic daily allowance. Necessary tolls and parking may be claimed with evidence. Alcohol, leisure activities, personal shopping and companion expenses are not reimbursable.

Procedures, safeguards and examples

4. Expense submission

Submit the expense report within 10 working days after the trip ends. Include dates, location, category, amount, business purpose, original receipt or invoice, approval reference and payment evidence where available. Split business and personal costs. Late claims require a brief reason and Finance review; they are not automatically rejected by AI.

5. Missing receipts and duplicate claims

For a missing receipt, provide a signed declaration with merchant, date, amount, purpose and alternative payment evidence. Manager and Finance review the claim case by case; a declaration does not guarantee reimbursement. Do not claim a company-paid booking, a reimbursed invoice or the same journey twice. Correct mistakes promptly rather than concealing them.

6. Advances, cancellation and review

A pre-approved advance may be issued by Finance. Reconcile it within 10 working days of returning and repay any unused amount through the approved process. Document business-related cancellation fees and notify the manager promptly. Finance targets payment within 10 working days of receiving a complete, approved claim and communicates questions or delays. Request HR and Finance review of a disputed claim.

7. Exceptions and records

Any exception to class of travel or monetary ceiling requires written manager and Finance approval before purchase where practical, with an explicit permitted amount. Store invoices and approvals in the expense system with restricted access. AI may identify missing evidence or possible duplicates for human review; it cannot accuse fraud, approve payment or change payroll.

8. Worked examples

Example A: a Delhi hotel at INR 4,500 including taxes is reimbursable up to INR 4,000 unless the extra INR 500 was covered by a recorded exception. Example B: INR 650 of receipted meals in a day is reimbursed at INR 650, not INR 800. Example C: a 100 km approved personal-car business journey is INR 800; claiming fuel for that journey as well is disallowed. International travel rates are absent from this pack.
